

Honouring our peacekeepers

A colour guard marches in front of the B.C. legislature on Tuesday during National Peacekeepers' Day to honour Canadian peacekeepers who have served and sacrificed throughout the nation's history in support of peace operations around the world. In a statement, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau said: "We will remember and honour their selfless contributions to humanity." DARREN STONE, TIMES COLONIST